

The crucial difference between success and failure in language learning is your teacher

OUR TEACHERS

Selecting the right tutor is more important than new technology and textbooks in ensuring that you develop foreign language skills quickly and easily

Many schools market innovative language systems as a magic cure-all for your challenges, as you strive to become fluent in a foreign tongue. At All Languages, we know that you are unique, with different needs to other students and responsive to different methods.

Our teachers understand this and see language learning as a co-operative and reactive process, working with you to achieve a mutual target: the improvement of your skill in the target language.

High standards and an individual approach

Our teachers are selected for their ability to work with adult students, as well as their knowledge and qualifications. They bring patience, humour, insight and imagination to the process. All are experienced in adult education, qualified to degree level, native speakers of the target language and fluent English speakers. Even more importantly, they understand that when it comes to language learning, one teaching style will not suit all students.

This is why our free preliminary assessment is so important; it allows us to know, from the start, the language skills you require and the method that will best suit you as an individual.

What methods do we use?

We don't have space to list them all. Our teachers are familiar with and use a vast range of textbooks, press articles, tapes and multimedia materials. They have the experience and skill to find the best way for you to develop your foreign language skills with confidence.

Whatever the method used, one thing is certain: You will learn the language you need, in the best way possible.
