

When the document looks like Greek but it's meant to be Russian...

TRANSLATION

Use expert translators who know the language of your industry and can work quickly and accurately to meet your deadlines

When you need contracts, sales documents or technical papers translated quickly and accurately from one language to others, you have to be confident that the task will be completed on time and within budget. Truly effective business translation requires specialist knowledge of technical language and the ability to express meanings precisely and in context.

A monumental task

Some time ago, we were selected by Atag Ernest & Young to translate documents supplied by claimants from all over the world, some of whom were Holocaust victims, wishing to pursue their claims relating to the 'Swiss Dormant Accounts'. These documents, ranging from birth certificates to management reports, needed to be translated from over 40 different languages to substantiate their claims. Some consisted of handwritten text, including one document that was written in 6 languages; others were written in such archaic styles that specialists had to be employed to bring clarity to the translation. 3 million words and 18 months later, the job was concluded successfully.

All translators are not created equal

Many companies offer translation services that may be adequate from a purely academic standpoint but do not meet the demands of your business. We offer translators who are experts in your industry and the markets in which you trade, and only translate into their mother tongue. They understand the jargon commonly used in finance, energy, IT, pharmaceuticals, engineering, law and shipping, and specialise in areas such as marketing, accountancy and sales.

This can be tremendously reassuring when the accuracy of important contracts, sales documents or sensitive communications is hanging in the balance.

Trust All Languages to deliver the result you need

We have been providing language services to Times 100 (MW is it 1000 or 100) companies since 1982. With a highly qualified and skilled staff of over 5000 translators and 700 interpreters, All Languages is able to deliver:

- A rapid response to every brief
- Accurate translation of all legal, technical, business, marketing, advertising and website texts
- A fast, flexible service from draft and proof to final output
- Certification and legalisation of all documents if required
- Finished texts in a variety of software applications to suit PC and or MAC environments
- Competitive fees
- Professional Indemnity
- Full membership of the Association of Translation Companies since 1985
- Confidentiality Agreement signed by all employees
- FREE translation quotation service

For more information about translating services or for a FREE quotation call Nicola Hudson on 020 7739 6641, email: nicola@alllanguages.co.uk or visit our website at www.alllanguages.co.uk